arbitration project was submitted to the Pan-American Congress this morning. The first article says:

"The American Republics represented in the international conference in the City of Mexico that have not subscribed to the three conventions signed at The Hague on July 29, 1899, recognize the principles therein expressed as a part of the international public law of America.

The second article says that realizing the high importance of The Hague Court of Arbitration, "and also that those American nations not signatory to the convention which created that beneficent institution may have recourse to it in the exercise of a recognized and accepted right, and, taking into consideration the further offer of the Governments of the United States and Mexico, the conference entrusts those Governments with the duty of negotiating with the other powers signatory for a peaceful settlement of international conflicts and the adhesion of such American nations not signatory to the same convention as may desire it."

The third article provides that the adhesion being ratified by the respective governments shall be communicated through diplomatic channels to the other governments. These three articles were signed on Dec. 26. Article IV., signed to-day, says: "In order to attain in the most satisfactory and most rapid manner the most ample and least restricted application of the principles of just arbitration, and with a vanced and mutually advantageous form in which these principles may be expressed in a convention that shall be signed by the American republics, the President of Mexico is most respectfully requested to secure the propositions of the different Governments represented in this conference regarding the most advanced form in which a general arbitration convention may be drawn, which could receive appro-bation and final ratification by the nations represented in the conference, and that on the termination of his investigation he prepare a project for such a general convention which shall fuffi the aspirations of all the republics, and that if possible he draw a partial protocol with a view to suffice a project in practice, or if this possible heads a partial protocol with a view to he draw a partial protocol with a view to putting such project in practice, or if this should not be practicable that he present the correspondence to the next conference with his report."

The Chilean delegates having withdrawn their signature from this project were free to oppose it to-day. They urged its reference to a committee, but President Raigosa replied that the project required no action by the conference, it having been read merely for information. Therefore no action by the conference, it having been read merely for information. Therefore he sent it to the Secretary-General. The Chileans declined to appeal from his decision, although continuing the argument and imploring the Chair to reverse himself. They made no explanation why they objected to the project as submitted although offering themselves one they admitted to be practically identical. It appears, however, that they hope thereby to gain the credit for initiating The Hague adoption movement in case they succeed in getting their proposition to a vote. adoption movement in case they succeed in getting their proposition to a vote.

At the afternoon session Mr. Buchanan said that when the project was drawn it was hoped and believed that it would have the support of every delegation. There had been no intention on the part of any signer that it should be other than what it is, the free action of fifteen delegations among and between themselves.

It might appear singular that fifteen delegations responsible only to their own governments should see fit to sing a document of any character and present that document to the conference with the simple request that it be transmitted to any department of the Mexican Government and that this should be objected to by delegations not parties to or affected by it. In making this request the signers of the making this request the signers of the project were entirely within their rights. Senor Carbo of Ecuador said the matter ought to go to committee. Besides, some of the delegations which signed the pro-lect exceeded their authority, as he knew, being a member of the Committee on Cre-impugned the right of delegations to sign a project. So far as the United States delegation was concerned it was responsible only to its own government. He believed only to its own government. He believed the same was the case with the others. Senor Carbo protested that his remarks were only of a diplomatic character and he intended no offence.

BLUFF CALLED IN BROADWAY. Motorman Sets About Accom

"Aw-w." said the driver of a light delivery wagon that was halted in front of and was blockading a Broadway car-this after some little conversation with the motorman- "I wish I had you down some side street!" The conversation had been carried on mainly by the driver of the light delivery wagon. The motorman all the time had kept very calm and cool. Upon CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 15 .- A general the utterance of this last speech by the young man in the wagon, the motorman, keeping as calm and cool as ever, began to make ready for action. With entire deliberation of movement he set the brake firmly and securely and then faced to the right, toward the platform step. The driver was a solid young man, who could doubtless hold his own with good ones, but the motorman was bigger and stronger: it takes a pretty good sort of man, anyway, to tool one of those yellow chariots safely through the Broadway crush, and this man was a very good one.

He set the brake firmly and securely, faced to the right, and stepped out, all with perfect calmness of manner. His second steplanded him with one foot on the platform step of the car: his third would have landed him on the ground.

But when the motorman's foot touched the car step, the horse hooked to the light delivery wagon felt a touch on the bit and started up, the wagon following. "Aw—w!" said the driver, as he faced the motorman, still standing with his foot on the car step; but he kept going. And a moment later the motorman stepped back on the platform, loosened the brake, and sailed serenely on, down Broadway.

Last year Mr. Winch went to the Pacific Coast for his health and was accompanied by Mrs. Abbott and her mother. While on the trip Mr. Winch drew up a will giving practically his whole estate to Mrs. Abbott, but this was destroyed upon his return and a newone made.

TRACES OF ARSENICAL POISON IN THEIR DEATHS.

Three of the Little Ones in One Family -The Parents Not Suspected of Killing Them-Other Children Affected -The Police Mystified in the Case

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 15 .- Several days three children of Antonia Marka of Olyphant, aged 7, 4 and 2, died on the same day. The attending physician found traces of arsenical poisioning. The Coroner performed autopsies and sent the contents of the stomachs to a chemist. The latter reported that arsenic in sufficient quantities to kill all the children had been found.

This led to additional bewilderment of the authorities for the distress of the parents apparently was too genuine to suspect them of having murdered their children. There were other reasons why they were deemed innocent.

A new direction was given to the inquiries set on foot by the authorities by the death last evening of a child of Frank Marusha, a neighbor of the Makas. This child evidently died from the same cause as that of the others, the symptoms being similar. Two children of another neighbor, John Bechech, were taken very ill, apparently from arsenic poisoning, but they recovered under prompt medical attention and their

The parents of all the children have de-clared that they have not the least idea where their little ones obtained the poison.

AS TO POLICE BLACKMAIL. Partridge Has Heard of It and Hopes to

"I have received a number of letters, anonymous and otherwise, teiling of blackmail," the Commissioner replied. "None of the information I have received would be admissible in court as evidence. I have also received a number of hints and suggestions. Now, blackmail is the hardest kind of a orime to prove. We have no doubt of its existence. It has existed, and will exist, but my aim will be to reduce it to a

I want to say that the information I have received, and the source from which it comes, makes me believe that there has been—has been, understand—blackmail in the department. That is the reason I have asked citizens who have evidence of blackmail to bring it to me."

Thorough reform must not be expected right at the jump, Col. Partridge said. It would be worked out by degrees, and even two years was too short a period in which to expect a decided reform.

"The men must understand," he continued, "that 'outside influence," which has worked great evil in past administrations, no longer exists. The sooner the men learn that, the better they will be off. Every man will get fair treatment. But it is difficult to make a man who has been a policeman for fifteen years understand this, and that is one of the reasons why it will be hard to bring about complete reform." tion I have received, and the source from

Why She Left Home. POUGHKEEPSIE, Jan. 15 .- The seventeen year-old daughter of Lansing Myers, a former New York man, who has a handsome home between Fishkill and Wappinger's Falls, disappeared several days ago. Her parents were distracted and made every effort to trace her but without success.

To-day it was ascertained that she was safe in the family of Deputy Sheriff Baum of Wappinger's Falls. Three days ago she applied at the Baum home for a position as a servant. She was employed. She was so dainty in dress and refined in manner that Deputy Sheriff Baum suspected that something was wrong and began an in-westigation.

While on a trolley car to-day he met the parents of the girl who were on their way to Poughkeepsie to offer a reward of $500 for information about their daughter. A little later there was a joyful re-union. Miss Myers would not explain why she had left her luxurious home to become a kitchen drudge

"AFTER ALL" NOT A GREAT PLAY. Martin Harvey Scores a Personal Suc in the London Production.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

LONDON, Jan. 15.-Mr. Martin Harvey produced at the Avenue Theatre to-night new play entitled "After All," by Freeman Wills and Frederick Langbridge. The plot was suggested by Lytton's "Eugene

Aram. It is a gloomy piece, in which the humor ous relief is rather idiotic. There are some strong lines and situations, but the latter are marred by absurdities. The play, when cut and rewritten, may reach the level of "The Only Way."

Mr. Harvey, upon whom the whole burden of the play fell, acted magnificently. Several times, despite the crudities and heaviness of the pice, he kept the house spellbound and won an enthusiastic tribute for his genius. His support, unfortunately was weak. Mr. Harvey will produce the play in the United States next autumn.

complished her purpose easily. The men add that double wages were offered to the crew to serve for another three months, but a majority of them refused. Capt Willis and a few others volunteered their services to the insurgents.

CHINESE FIRE ON BRITISH SHIP. CUBAN POSTAL FRAUD CASES; Chaplain Wounded in an Attack on the West River.

Special Cable Despatches to THE SUN LONDON, Jan. 15 .- A despatch from Hong Kong says the British steamship Nanning has been fired on in the West River by Chinese. The Rev. Mr. Cowan, chaplain of the British battleship Glory, who was on board, was shot in the leg. The British cruiser Robin has been despatched to the scene to inquire into the matter. Hono Kono, Jan. 15 .- The Rev. E. J. Besides wounding the Rev. Mr. Cowan, chaplain of H. M S. Glory, through the knee, the Chinamen grazed the leg of a European customs officer. Soon afterward the Nanning met the British gunboats Sandpiper and Robin and reported the attack. The Robin has gone to investigate its cause. Mr. Hardy believes that the Chinese soldiers had mutinled. Mr. Cowan has been brought into hospital here.

Rathbone Tells of Personal Expenses Charged to Post Office Accounts.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. HAVANA, Jan. 15 .- The trial of the Post Office cases was continued to-day. Ex-Director of Posts Rathbone was examined by the Fiscal regarding personal items that were charged to postal accounts. Some of the bills were marked "Allowed" by Rathbone and warrants for the amounts were issued by Reeves and signed by either Rathbone or Bristow. Other accounts that were allowed by Mr. Bristow were paid with warrants issued by Reynolds, who acted in Reeves's absence. The defence alleged that the fact that Reynolds and Bristow, who are not accused, intervened in the matter shows that the transactions were open and were considered correct.

Rathbone stated that he charged a coach and other private items to the postal acpounts by authority of the postal code. Postmaster-General Smith rode in the coach when he was in Havanna, and Rathbone told him he had bought it with postal funds. Mr. Smith made no objection Rathbone admitted that Rich told him something about Neely having said he had saved Rathbone $4,000 by charging his (Rathbone's) private expenses ur the guise of miscellaneous accounts.
